Washingtonians Die at the Rate of 20.96 Per Thousand Yearly, the Third Highest Rate in Large Cities-Colored Population and Refuse From Cumberland Do It.

The somewhat remarkable fact is developed in the death rate records of the twenty-five largest cities in the United States for the -past year that Washington, with all its advantages of wide, clean streets, excellent sewerage system and freedom from the tenement-house curse, is still the third highest in mortality rate.

To death rate per 1,000 of the estimated population of the largest cities out of 1,332 which have been reported to Surgeon General Wyman, of the Marine Hospital Service, for the year ending June 30, 1897, is as rellows:

Allegheny, Pa., 14.87; Baltimore, Md., 19.58; Boston, Mass., 22.53; Brooktyn, N. 20.52; Buftalo, N. Y., 13.26; Chicago, III., 14.36; Cincinnati. Ohio, 16.90; Cle land, Ohio. 13.72; Denver, Col., 10.48; Detroit, Mich. 14.28; Indianapolis, Ind., 12.46; Louisville, Ky., 15.60; Mitwaukee, Wis., 15.00; Minneapolis, Minn., 9.13; New Orleans, La., 27.25; New York, N. Y., 20.86; Omaha, Neb., 6.61; Rochester, N. Y., 13.51; St. Louis, Mo., 17.36; St. Paul, Minn., 9.25; San Francisco, Cal., 16.76; Syracuse, N. Y., 15.76; Washington, D. C.,

This makes New Orleans, with 27.25 deaths per year per thousand, the banner death city. Boston is second with 22.53 and Washington third with 26.96 per thousand. Deaver, Colo., the high-altitude home for consumptives, is near the bottom of the list with 10.48, though Minneap ohs with 9.13 and Omaha with only 6.61 deaths per thousand are even healthjer,

The flat New Orleans, with its marshes all about, bas always been high on the list. Boston has its back bay, its consump-tion and its tenements, besides the strain of its intellectual overwork, and always has a high rate. But New York and Baltimore and Chicago and many other cities where the condition of overcrowding has always been considered one of the great-est breeders of diseases, are all behind

Washington's sewerage system is cor sidered one of the finest, if not the very best in the country. The streets of the Capital City are wide, shaded and concreted. There is an immense park aren which has always been considered a most desirable and healthful feature. We boast of the parks as our "lungs" and say that our long development is one of the largest in the country. The poor children play in the parks and are thought to be almost as well off as those which are sen to the mountains or the seashore. Our temperature rate compares very favorably both as to its extremes and its mean raise with other cities. A reporter for the Times spoke to Dr. Woodward, the health officer, yester next month, provided that it does not day on the subject. It appears that Wash interfere with the proper discharge of his ington has really a high death rate. but there is much more than appears on the surface of vital statistics to be taken into consideration, and that Washing ton's real rate, especially as to her white population, is not so bad as it looks com-

> "The people who estimate the popula tion of cities are frequently wrong for one taing," said Dr. Woodward, "In 1894 and 1895 the estimated population on which our death rate was figured was 185,000. When the police census was taken it was found that we really had only 171,000 people in the city. These cities that have lower death rates according to estimated population may have

"Another factor in our high death rate is our very large colored population. Every Southern city with comparatively large colored population has a large number of deaths relatively. The death rate nong the negroes is always high. "One other factor that must be taken into consideration is that we are not a boom town. Denver and other compara tively new cities increase very rapidly in population, and this increase is an increase of adolts and not of infants, like Washington. This pulls down their death rate very much necessarily, for by far the largest part of any old city's mortality is among its infants.

"However, after taking all these facts into ensideration we are pretty well up on the list without a doubt and have a really high rate. Some of the reasons for thi are easy to discover. The rates of typhoid fever and diarrheal deaths are very high in Washington and pull up the general rate These are due first to the water supply, which is unquestionably very bad, and second to the large number of surface closets, especially among the col-ored people, in the outlying sections.

"We have no longer any right to con far from it. Typhold fever is contracted by eating or drinking the germs from som other typhold patient, and not by breathing With regard-to the Potomac rive we in Washington see the unpleasant con dition of things that Cumberland, above us, has filter beds for her water supply, but drains her sewers in the river below the city. We get the benefit of her sewage. The distance a river flows has very little to do with the purifying of the water. The soluble vegetable matters containing dis ase germs from Comberland reach us in a very potent state. "The diarriael deaths amongst us ar largely among the colored people. Diarrheal roubles come largely from lack of cleanliness, not especially personal, but neigh-borhood cleanliness. The water supply borhood cleaniness. The water affects this class of diseases also.

"As for the general healthfulness of the city's locality aside from these conditions I believe that it is good. The presence of the Eastern Branch and the flats unquestionably affects our death rate, but not largely, I believe. The deaths from malarial troubles, directly, is small, though to an extent, a person's vitality is lowered by malaria. As far as location is concerned this factor of the flats is our only disad-vantage." Dr. Woodward believes very strongly that the city should filter its water supply n his opinion filter beds would und ly largely reduce our death rate. He exbiniself very forcibly on the sub-

It is a matter for congratulation that despite the Potomac and our relatively high rate we are improving steadily and rapidly all the time. The city health now compares most favorably with that of twenty years ago. Hardly another large city in the country makes a better showing

The first vital statistics taken were those of 1876. In that year the deaths per thousand among the colored population were 40.78, among the whiter 19.54, and for the total population 26.40. The recent statistics of 1897 make the rate 28.59 for the colored people. 17.11 among the whites, and 20.71 for the total population.

MONEY FOR STREET CLEANING. Sopt. MacKenzie Says That $10,000 More Is Needed.

intendent of Street Cleaning Mac-Kenzie yesterday submitted to the Comners an addition to his annual report, which appeared in yesterday morning's Times, in Which he asks for an additional appropriation of $10,000, necessary, he thinks, to keep the city's streets properly cleaned. He says:

"In connection with the foregoing raport I respectfully submit the following for the consideration of the Commissioners and such action as they may deem proper. In my opinion it is imperatively necessary that Congress should increase the appropriation for sprinkling sweeping and cleaning the streets, and avenues, etc. for the present fiscal year. This is made necessary by the increased price for machine sweeping and the inauguration of the band cleaning method in parts of the The action of the Co this direction has met with the manimous approval of the press and people, and there is no disputing the fact, successfully, that the streets which are cleaned by hand are much better cleaned than they have ever been before. "In many of the cities of the country the hand system has been introduced, to a greater or less extent, and has in all ses commended itself to the public. In New York the entire city is being hand cleaned daily, and with the most gratifying results, the death rate has been reduced materially, and the city, from being almost one of the dirtiest in the world, has be-come one of the cleanest and healthiest. The increase in the number of men taken from the ranks of the enemployed and put to work is another subject for congratuamount required to continue the work on

COLD IN THE HEAD

Is acute inflammation and swelling of the Olfactory organ which contains the Nerves of Smell. This organ is a long ribbon-like membrane and hancs from the roof of the Nasal passage in folds, as seen in Fig. 3. When this condition becomes chronic, or permanent, it is called CATARRH. The folds become swellen into a solid mass, so the air in breathing cannot circulate between them; hence the loss of smell. The Catarrhal microbe soon makes its appearance, causing a mutitude of small ulcers between these folds. The pus from these ulcars is very poisonous and soon impregnates the whole mucous surface of the nose, head and throat with the disease. Medical works show cases where the tonais have become a corrupt mass of ulcers. It not infrequently involves the whole bronchial passage to the imags, causing consumption and death. It will be seen that nothing can radically cure Catarrh which does not reach to the seat of the disease. ites and death.
